Being married with a child does not leave a lot of free time for relaxation and drinking with “the guys”, so Robert spends whatever time he has at home brewing small batches of beer. Every Friday, Robert’s wife “allows” him to go to a local brewery after work with his co-workers to enjoy a beer and un-wind.

Name: Oneil Barton Age: 28

Ethnicity: Caucasian
Occupation: Waiter at Whiskey River
Hobbies: Surfing, Drinking
Children: N/A
Pets: Steve, lab/pit mix, 2 years old
Relationship: In a relationship for 7 months

Biography:

Oneil works about 6 days a week just to make ends meet as a waiter at Whiskey River, a local bar and grill. Luckily, he works nights, which allows him ample time during the day to go surfing and just relax at the beach with his friends, girl friend and dog Steve before he has to go into work. After he gets off work, he usually stops by a local brew pub on his way home for 1-2 beers. He really likes it for the quiet nature of the pub’s atmosphere as compared to his work environment and because he can just sit and talk with whoever wants to meet him.

Name: Jessica Serra Age: 23

Ethnicity: Hispanic
Occupation: Student, Senior at FSCJ
Hobbies: Running, Shopping, Cheerleading
Children: N/A
Pets: Trix, Tabby, 9 years old
Relationship: Single

Biography:

Jessica is finishing up her Bachelor’s degree in nursing through the Florida State college of Jacksonville and her time is rather tight between school, exercise and keeping her friendships healthy. When she does have a free moment to see her friends, she heads to the local brewery because it allows her to socialize without the aggressive and rowdy nature of a bar, or the sexually charged atmosphere of a night club. Also, the breweries wide selection of beers allows her to find something that isn’t hard to drink, but doesn’t taste like water.
